Pzena Investment Management, LLC ("Pzena"), a significant shareholder of Lear Corporation ("Lear"), has expressed opposition to Lear's proposed merger with a subsidiary of American Real Estate Partners, L.P. on the basis that the merger undervalues Lear. Lear believes that shareholders should note that while Pzena has claimed that the fair value for Lear is between $55 and $60 per share of common stock, Pzena has sold a substantial amount of Lear common stock well below this range. This filing consists of a summary of Pzena's trading activity in Lear common stock during the time period from February 1, 2006 to February 14, 2007 based on information contained in filings made by Pzena with the Securities and Exchange Commission and compiled by Thomson Financial. The filing reflects the fact that during this time period, Pzena sold over 3.7 million shares of Lear common stock at an average price substantially below $36 per share. In addition, the summary reflects the fact that three weeks prior to Lear's October 2006 private placement to affiliates of Carl Icahn, Pzena sold in excess of 425,000 shares of Lear common stock at a price of approximately $20 per share.
